

The present invention makes available methods and reagents for inhibiting cell growth or promoting cell differentiation comprising contacting the cell with a differegruline in a sufficient amount to inhibit cell proliferation or promote cell differentiation.

The present invention makes available methods and reagents for inhibiting cell growth or promoting cell differentiation comprising contacting the cell with a differeguline in a sufficient amount to inhibit cell proliferation or promote cell differentiation.